ROB HICKS:

Against a background of 32 years as a broadcaster, Rob's affair with wine began in the 1960s, fermented into wine education in the seventies, export and commentary in the eighties and, from the nineties onwards, multi-media, presentation and more education both at home and abroad. In recent years, Rob has spent much of his time working with the consumer-based Good Food & Wine Show (Melbourne, Perth, Sydney, Adelaide and Brisbane) and for various other public and trade events.

At these events, he's responsible for the production and presentations within the wine theatres.

Rob has a passion for telling the stories behind quality wine, regardless of price point.

This year, he returns to judging at the most prestigious show for small winemakers in Australasia, the Australian Small Winemakers Show.
