A MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

I take pleasure and pride in the presenting the results of a successful 2012 Australian Small Winemakers Show (ASWS). The ASWS is the culmination of countless meetings and many months of behind the scenes planning and organisation by members and volunteers of the Stanthorpe Agricultural Society Wine Committee. It never ceases to amaze me how much time is given up by our loyal and passionate volunteers. Without their toil and diligence, a Show such as ours cannot happen. Our organisation is totally voluntary, yet our volunteer numbers grow larger with each passing year. The camaraderie and friendship of this volunteer group is extraordinary and I thank each and every one of them.

The aim of the ASWS is to promote excellence in winemaking by smaller sized producers. There is no disadvantage to those with limited resources as their commercial wines are bench marked against other similar sized producers. This year saw around 6,500 bottles of wine sorted and placed into appropriate classes by our volunteer group. This number was made up of 1620 entries from 310 producers across Australia and New Zealand.

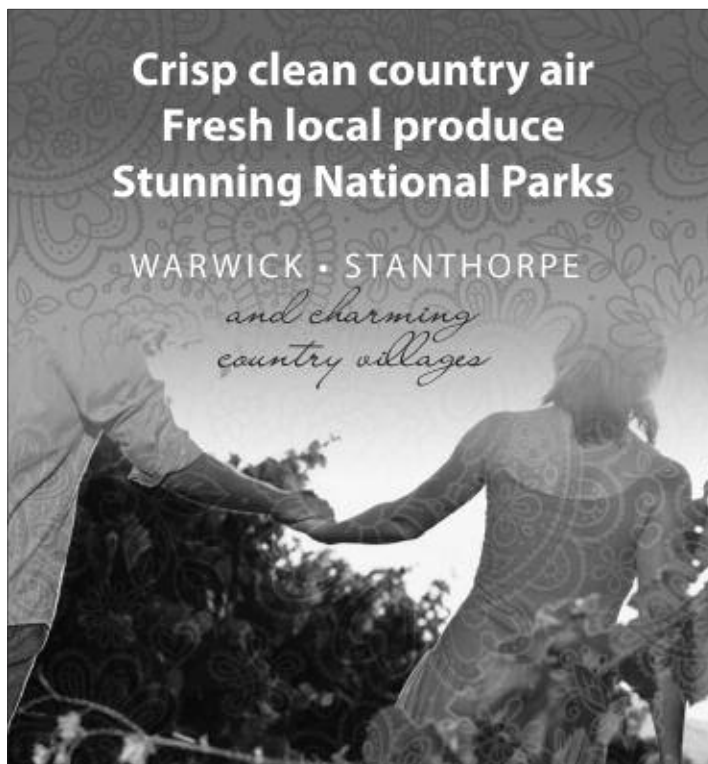

This year we welcomed Chairman of judges, Mike Farnilo, Panel chair Trina Smith, and Judges Andrew Locke, Jeremy Nascimbin, Andrew Santarossa and Peter Kelly to the ASWS family. They joined returning Panel chairs Kevin Glastonbury, Joel Tilbrook, Corey Hall and Judges Bruce Gregory, Jen Pfeiffer, Adam Clay and Jim McMahon. I thank them for their high level of commitment, professionalism and expertise.

They have all offered expert guidance and experience to our seven associate judges of which this year, I am delighted to say, three were from Queensland. The ASWS is proud to provide this valuable training ground for up and coming wine professionals - an important facet of the show that cannot be under estimated as it allows our Associate Judges to be exposed to wine judging of the highest calibre.

This year we embraced and engaged with social media via Facebook and Twitter. This enabled us to provide timely information and updates to interested stakeholders and individuals and further promote the ASWS brand. I would encourage you to follow us on Twitter or like us on Facebook.

Lastly, I would like to congratulate all trophy and medal winners and thank all producers who have entered our wine show. I look forward to your continuing association with the ASWS.

CHAIRMAN OF JUDGE'S REPORT

In my first year as Chairman of the Australian Small Winemakers Show I am pleased to report that this was a very high standard show. Overall, there has been a high percentage of wines achieving medal status, and a good percentage of these were Gold and Silver.

In particular, highlights in white wine classes were the fresh, young 2012 Rieslings, showing fantastic purity of flavour and a real pleasure to judge. Chardonnays continued to evolve into that lighter, more elegant style with great complexity and finesse. Both the 2011 and 2012 Chardonnay classes were interesting and diverse. However, the judges did comment that many wines still showed too much oak, and winemakers need to watch the level of sweetness and ensure it is in balance.

Red wine classes were very strong again. The 2011 Pinot Noirs were a real highlight with a mix of rich and full to fine and elegant styles in the awards, and the top wines showing increased complexity and richness.

While the more traditional varieties of Cabernet Sauvignon and Shiraz performed strongly, new varieties such as Durif, Tempranillo and Nero D'Avola provide some exciting styles as winemakers gain more experience in the growing and making of these wines. However, across all red classes it was particularly evident that Brettanomyces is still a problem, with many potentially good wines spoilt by some level of Brett. There needs to be more attention paid to regular maintenance of red wines, especially when they are in barrel.

My congratulations to all the trophy and award winners on their success.

Thanks to my fellow judges for their dedication over the 3 days to the professional assessment of the wines.

Finally, congratulations to the Wine Show committee led by Andy Williams, Anthony Rametta and Ian Henderson, and supported by a large team of capable stewards, on the organisation and running of such a professional judging.

It was a pleasure to be involved in such a successful wine show.

I commend the wines to you.

CHIEF STEWARD'S SUMMARY

The Australian Small Winemakers Show is over again for another year and again it has been an excellent show. Organising classes, 20 Judges and Associates, their travel, accommodation and judging requirements takes a devoted team many months of effort. In addition, co-ordinating Judges and stewards, their meals, activities, rosters and tasks is a massive effort in its own right. With a show this big, planning for the next year begins even before the current show has finished.

2012 is my 2nd year as Chief Steward and I was eager, but a little apprehensive about the giant task ahead of myself. But with the help of my number two (Ian Henderson) and my very experienced and well drilled team we managed to get every wine poured and in front of our Judges for their scrutiny. For this I would sincerely like to thank all of my volunteers for making the show run so smoothly.

Our Judges and Associates this year came from all wine producing states in Australia and New Zealand. They have worked hard to deliver a fantastic result with medals equalling last year's performance.

I would like to thank the Judges and Associates for their time and effort which they have generously donated to make this show possible.

Lastly, I would like to congratulate all our medal winners on their award winning wines.

A class of interesting wines, showing diversity in Chardonnay.
 Gold showed the poise and precision required and expected.
 Unfortunately many wines still showed too much oak and also watch the level of sweetness!!

Judges Comments:

Many wines had forward/developing colours; and these wines showed lack of vibrancy and fruit intensity on the palate. Brettanomyces is still an issue with a high incidence.

Top wines showed elegance, balance and purity of fruit showcasing the variety.

On behalf of everyone at Vintessential, Greg Howell is delighted to announce that we are now the exclusive Australian distributor for Anchor, the leading New World wine-yeast brand.

Our own tests prove that Anchor products clearly withstand the extreme conditions of Australian winemaking including cold fermentations, reductive winemaking and the fermentation of grapes with high sugars.

The Anchor yeast range includes:

- Alchemy I, a blend to enhance aromatic esters in white wines;
- Alchemy II, an aromatic blend to enhance volatile thiols in white wines;
- Exotics, for the production of icon wines;
- N96, a strong-fermenting, all-purpose yeast;
- NT116, ideal for producing crisp white and full bodied red wines;
- NT202, for aromatic red wines;
- NT 50, for fruity red wines;
- NT45, for early-release fruity red wines;
- VIN13, for fresh and fruity white and rosé wines;
- VIN 2000, for barrel-fermented, complex, aromatic white wines;
- VIN 7, to enhance thiol aromas in white wines;
- WE14, for naturally sweet white wines;
- WE372, a yeast that produces aromatic, supple red wines; and
- NT202 co-inoculant bacteria.

Exhibit 13 Insufficient bottles.

Rose is not just about simple fruit and sweetness. The judges look for expression of fruit purity and clarity. Wines should have balanced acid, tannin and sweetness and exhibit varietal flavour.

Judges Comments:

2011 vintage was difficult, however this class showed some lovely stylish wines.
Wines with no awards were overtly oded, some sweetness and some showed too much development.

A range of styles with the top wines showing freshness and vibrancy despite some age. Too many wines looking advanced with dried out palates.

Has shiraz viognier lost its way?
 Top silvers show the direction we should see but still lack the extra poise and precision needed.
